"Beauty and Power." The secret of a woman's power is in her complete womanliness, both physical and mental. This does not mean perfect outline nor regularity of features. It does not mean wit nor talents nor accomplishments. It means that physical attractiveness that comes from perfect bodily condition and the bright, happy cheerfulness of disposition which only complete health can insure.

A woman with a bright eye, clear complexion, mantling color in the cheeks and buoyant elastic step and manner has a natural attractiveness that no artificial agency can counteract.

A woman who is afflicted with the mortifying misfortune of a dull, sallow, pimply complexion or that listless movement and attitude which provokes only disgust and revulsion in the opposite sex, ought to avail herself of the purifying, invigorating power of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which makes a strong, healthy stomach and digestive organism; purifies the blood and imparts a natural stimulus to the excretory functions; insures healthy weight, clear skin, bright eyes and the natural and becoming of perfect health.

A lady living in West Virginia, Miss Anna Callow, of Kyger Roane Co. writes: "It is with pleasure I write you after using a few bottles of Dr. Pierce's 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery' and think them valuable medicine for female troubles and weaknesses. I could hardly go about my work I had such inward weakness and constant misery in the womb. It worried me so that I would give out in walking a short distance. I had a bad night and my husband said he would not let me live if I did not get well. I used only five bottles in all. I shall ever speak in praise of your grand medicines. They are blessings to suffering females."

Another good thing to have in the house is a vial of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They cure biliousness and constipation and never gripe.

Daughter of General Sickles Married to Dayrell Crackanthorpe.

Miss Eda Sickles, daughter of General Daniel E. Sickles, was married in Spain a few weeks ago to Dayrell Crackanthorpe, third secretary of the British embassy at Madrid and son of one of the leaders of the English bar. When General Sickles was United States minister to Spain under General Grant,

FOR LITTLE FOLKS.

The Party They Didn't Have.

"Well, Jack, do you know it is about time for us to have our annual party?" "Oh, dear," said Mr. Frost, "it seems as if we only had one last one yesterday!"

"Yes," said his wife, "but we must have our crystal party, and you will send the invitations, as I might slight some one."

"Well, let me think. We will have Mt. Northwind."

"Yes, and don't forget my dear friend Miss Snow."

"Oh, no!" replied her husband.

"There is no danger of that."

The night of the party the house of Mr. and Mrs. Frost was elegantly decorated. The windows were draped with beautiful icy curtains, the telegraph poles were fringed with white fur, and the trees were laden with beautiful crystal fruit.

It was early in the evening when the guests began to arrive.

First came Mr. Northwind and Miss Snow, followed by Mr. Hail and Miss Rain. Widow Gust did not arrive until later. Now, Mr. Frost and Mr. Southwind were not very good friends. Although Mr. Southwind would not have gone, he was very angry when he received no invitation to the party.

"I am going to try to prevent this taking place," said Mr. Southwind, and he went to Mr. Sun, who was tucked up in his warm bed, and told him all about the great party.

In a very few moments Mr. Sun's smiling face peeped out from the curtains of clouds. He stretched out his hand and drew the frightened Mr. Frost toward him.

Poor Jack soon disappeared, and none of his friends was slighted, though all were missed (mist).—Edith Chapman in New York Herald.

Under the Mistletoe.

My papa's coming in the door.

What fun! He does not know.

That I am hiding in the hall.

Under the mistletoe!

It's hung so high in all the rooms.

I might not notice me.

I'd be so little under it—

Tis high as any tree.

And so I hold a little piece
Just for a new surprise.

My papa'll laugh and look at me

With twinkles in his eyes.

Of course I'd get a kiss without.

But Christmas eve, you know.

It's much more fun to have it come

Under the mistletoe!

THE PRICE OF PEPPER.

Helped to Change the History of the Old World.

In the sixteenth century all the pepper consumed in England was bought by the English merchants from the Dutch, who brought it from India. Owing to racial jealousy, the Dutch traders in 1599 raised the cost from 8 millings to 6 shillings per pound. This petty display of ill feeling caused considerable annoyance to the English merchants and aroused in them that feeling of independence which has always been so characteristic of our race.

They determined to import their pepper direct from India in their own ships, and for this purpose formed a company, called the Governor and Company of Merchants of London Trading to the East Indies, and which in latter days became eventually known as the East India company.

Their first voyages embroiled them in almost innumerable quarrels with the Dutch and Portuguese, and for a time the venture proved a financial failure. It was not until 1615 that the company became successful and obtained lucrative treaties, owing to their decisively defeating the Portuguese.

From this time on their possessions gradually increased, slowly at first, and then very rapidly, until, by the wise and beneficial management of such men as Clive, Warren Hastings and Cornwallis, they exercised sovereignty over the greater portion of India.

In this manner it happened that an increase in the price of pepper momentally affected the history of mankind.

NEVADA STATE JOURNAL

SATURDAY, JANUARY 28, 1899.

DOWN, YE SLAVES.

In the JOURNAL's report of proceedings of the Assembly published yesterday the following appears:

"Mr. Livingston gave notice that he would at some future day introduce a bill to regulate publishers and owners of newspaper plants and resident correspondents in the State of Nevada."

There is not in Nevada an industrial class who need regulating more than the men identified with and engaged in the newspaper business. A law that will regulate these men in the future and punish them for past offenses is so much needed that we would suggest that all the punishments in the crimes acts of the Dark Ages should be made a part of the bill noticed. These men are taking liberties with the enemies of the people that should not be longer tolerated in a slave community.

Nixon of the Silver State should be found guilty of sheep stealing and hung.

Our young friends of the Elko Argonaut, who are natives of the State, should be found guilty and banished from the State. Their crime is a symptom of youthful manhood and independence which cannot be permitted in Nevada.

The young men who conduct the Tuscarora Times-Review are afflicted with a severe case of willfulness and need regulating in a severe manner. They should be taught a lesson they will in the future remember. If we are not taking liberties we would recommend a like punishment that Nixon should receive. Hang them— which is a punishment they will not in the future forget.

The gentlemen who conduct and publish the Carson News and Virginia Enterprise, for past offenses and anticipated future wrongdoing, should be severely regulated by being chained to a stake in Carson and burned before Bill Stewart leaves the State. Stewart's friends beyond a doubt would furnish the fagots.

Then there is Bragg of the Gazette who is more guilty than you all. He is villain-in-chief; he is guilty of the crime of treason against Charles I, by the grace of the Southern Pacific Company, King of Nevada. His sentence will not be less than that he be hung, drawn and quartered, as a reminder to less offenders that Charles I not only reigns but rules in Nevada. Allen, the JOURNAL extends condolence, but takes comfort by reminding you that Nevada has within her borders more Cromwells than King Charles is aware of, and before the time of your execution his political head may roll into a basket.

CLUMSY WHITEWASHING.

The expected has happened and a coat of whitewash, clumsily applied, has "exonerated" Assemblyman Liedy from the charge of receiving a bribe for his vote for Wm. M. Stewart for United States Senator. The proceedings before the so-called investigating committee were worse than farcical. Important witnesses in reply to relevant questions, insultingly replied to the committee minority: "It is none of your business," "I will not tell you," etc., and their brazen contumacy was sustained by the majority of the committee.

Liedy was elected as an independent and anti-Stewart candidate. The mere fact of his changing front a few days before the vote was taken, was sufficient in itself to create more than a suspicion that corrupt influences had brought about the change. This in connection with his well known transactions with C. C. Wallace shortly before he announced his "preference" for Stewart changed what might be charitably termed suspicion into moral, if not absolute, certainty. Speaker Allen was unquestionably correct, in the latter part of his statement, when he said that he did not believe in any more investigation, for they would not result in anything. Certainly they will not in a Stewart legislature where so many of the jurors got a slice of the stolen pork. The opinion, or rather the conviction of the people, however, will not be changed, but, on the contrary, will be strengthened by such reports of committees whose plentiful supply of whitewash cannot conceal, or even obscure, the black and indelible stain of Stewartian bribery and corruption.

We question if any such act of indecent discourtesy was ever before committed in a legislative body as was manifested toward Col. Conboye by the State Senate last Wednesday. Colonel Conboye was a contestant for the seat of Colonel Lord, and was notified by the Senate to make a statement of his case on the floor of the Senate chamber. When he came forward for that purpose and before he had uttered a word, a motion was made to the effect that Colonel Lord was entitled to the seat and was carried while the contestant was standing on the floor. Justice to Colonel Lord, we will state, from our knowledge of the gentleman, that we do not believe he approved of such indecent proceeding, and that he felt heartily ashamed of the action of the majority who treated his opponent with such shabby and boorish disrespect.

The Silver State asks the question: "Are we a free people?" We don't know how it is at Winnemucca, but we are pretty certain that there are a number of people at Carson "free" who ought to be in the State Prison.

THE WATER QUESTION.

Well Timed Remarks by Hon. F. G. Newlands Before the Washoe County Delegation.

A meeting of the Washoe county delegation was held at the rooms of the committee on ways and means, Thursday afternoon, at which Congressman Newlands presented his views regarding the solution of the water question on the Truckee river. Mr. Newlands said that he understood that some measure would be introduced at the present session of the legislature, modifying the bill passed at the last session of the legislature and under which the city council was now operating. He said that he was an interested party, as he was a stockholder and bondholder of the existing water works and was also interested in the storage sites on the Truckee, which he had purchased years ago at the request of prominent citizens of Reno, for the purpose of holding them until Reno or Washoe county could acquire the power to purchase.

He said that he understood that the purpose of the proposed legislation was to submit to a popular election, the question as to whether Reno would acquire the existing water works, at an appraised value, or to build new water works. That all other things being equal and assuming that the price paid would be a fair one, he thought it would be better to acquire the existing water works, as there would be ample revenue to meet the bonds issued for purchase. Whereas, if the city built new water works, it would have the competition of the old company for some time and the city's revenue would be insufficient. It might be assumed that in the end the city water works would drive the old works out of business, but certainly no fair minded man could look with favor upon action which would practically destroy the capital of good citizens, provided they were willing to sell at a fair price. Mr. Newlands said that he had not seen the proposed bill and did not know what its provisions would be, but certainly he could see no objection to submitting the purchase of the existing water works, electric light and gas plant, to the people, after an appraisal had been made, as a popular vote would doubtless reject the purchase if it was not advantageous.

Mr. Newlands insisted, however, that a comprehensive plan would require provision for storage of water and that the bill should cover this point. He said that the river was useful for three purposes, irrigation, water supply to Reno and power, and that during three months in the year the flow of the river was so scanty as to imperil all these uses. He said that the storage of water, in order to maintain the volume of the stream, during the period of drought, was absolutely essential and should be at the basis of any comprehensive plan for the settlement of the water question. How could the irrigation question be settled if the crops were imperiled in the dry years? How could more land be put under irrigation unless the volume of the stream was increased during the hot season when water was most required? How could the river be relied upon for power for the electric plant, the flour mill and general manufacturing, when the stream was inadequate three months in the year? How could pure water be furnished the inhabitants if the stream became so scanty as to concentrate the filth running into it from the towns above Reno?

Mr. Newlands did not discuss the question of price for any of the properties referred to. He simply claimed that any bill passed should give ample power of acquisition, so that the people of Reno and Washoe county, when they desire to act upon the matter, would not find themselves restrained by the organic act itself. They ought to have the power to do what they wish to do and the submission to a popular vote would prevent any imposition upon the public.

Suicide by Drowning.

A young Swiss named Henry Ceresa, committed suicide Wednesday evening by drowning. He has been working for J. J. Bercker at his ranch on the meadows for about two months and it was noticed that he was slightly demented, but no thoughts were entertained of his committing suicide. On Wednesday evening he disappeared shortly before supper, and failing to put in an appearance, a search was commenced, with the result that his pipe and tobacco were found on the bank of the reservoir and foot prints leading to the edge of the water. The news was brought to town and John Green secured the assistance of Nelson, the blacksmith, who made a grapping iron after Mr. Green's pattern, which was taken to the scene of the suicide and a systematic search was begun for the remains, with the result that the body was brought to the surface about noon yesterday. The remains are at present at W. Sanders' undertaking parlors.

Mrs. J. L. Shan, nee Kate Garrard, arrived here yesterday morning from the west and passed through on a visit to friends at Carson.

It's a thousand-to-one bet that no person who is pretending to defend the wretches who betrayed their constituents for Stewart, would sleep in the same room with either of them, without first placing his watch and purse in the custody of the hotel clerk before going to bed.
